

MANY CHANGES ARE PROPOSED

New Tariff Measure Will Alter Many Business Conditions Very Materially.

WAS PRESENTED IN HOUSE TODAY

Follows Very Closely The Lines Laid Down In Taft's Inaugural Address And Result Of Investigations Of Special Committees.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 17.—A downward revision with maximum and minimum provisions which impose an average maximum duty of twenty per cent in excess of the present tariff and numerous provisions by which it is estimated the revenue of the government will be increased from forty to fifty million dollars, are the salient features of the new tariff bill which was introduced in the house today.
The recommendations of President Taft that an inheritance tax be provided and a limited amount of tobacco and sugar be included in the bill.
The measure also provides for the issuance of Panama canal bonds to the amount of forty millions to reimburse the treasury for the original purchase of the canal, and requests the provision for the issue of treasury certificates, the amount being increased from a hundred million to two hundred and fifty million.
While there is no imposed duty on coffee, tea is taxed eight cents. The internal revenue tax on cigarettes is also materially increased, but the tax on beer and whiskey is undisturbed.
A cut of fifty per cent is made in the alcohol and lumber schedules. Iron ore, hides, tallow, cottonseed oil, and wool are of more than twenty years old, are placed on the free list. The tariff on boots and shoes is reduced forty per cent and on other

It is said, "There is a local branch with 50 members."

Explosion of a lamp which had been left lighted in the room of two children, when the parents left the home, nearly caused destruction of the home of Dan Folscher, Ninth street. The fire spread to a dresser and completely destroyed it but the noise of the glass as it was shattered by the heat, gave the alarm to inmates in another part of the house and the home was saved by prompt work. The loss is $150 from smoke.

LOBBY COMMITTEE WILL OPPOSE BILL

Bill to Provide Highway Commission Is Unfair, Say Members of Rock County Lobby Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., March 17.—The lobbying committee which was appointed by the county board at the January session, has not yet registered with the secretary of state, as the other lobbies have done, but will report there soon. The committee which was appointed by the supervisors in January and consists of P. E. Livermore of Beloit, S. S. Jones of Clinton, and L. E. Gettle of Edgar, is to look after the interests of Rock county. They will lobby against a bill now pending in the legislature providing for a highway department, the establishment of a state highway commission, and for making appropriations for this work. The committee believe the bill will be very unjust to Rock county. The bill provides for an appropriation of $300,000, of which according to the property valuation, Rock county's share would be $8,923. The distribution of this fund according to the provisions of the measure would be: equally, 14; according to the real estate value, 14; and 14 on the basis of area. Rock county would receive in return only $5,700 under the most favorable con-

PRINCESS PATRICIA JUST TWENTY-THREE

Handsome Member of the English Royal Family Is Not Looking for a Husband at This.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, March 17.—Princess Patricia of Connaught who, according to report, has recently added the Count of Teulada to her list of rejected ones, received congratulations from the royal family and numerous friends today on the occasion of her twenty-third birthday. Princess Patricia, who often is called the handsomest member of the English royal family, was born on St. Patrick's day, in 1886, and received the name of Patricia in consequence. It is said that she might have been Queen of Spain instead of her cousin, the Princess Eugenie of Battenberg, had she so desired. But she has repeatedly told her most intimate friends that she doesn't care to marry any man with a title, even if the title be that of king.

LACROSSE BUSINESS MEN OPPOSE BILL

Manufacturers and Jobbers Union Express Themselves As Against Commission Government.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Crosse, Wis., March 17.—The La Crosse Manufacturers' and Jobbers' union have expressed themselves as strongly opposed to the measure introduced by Senator Whitehead providing for a new body to perform the duties of city government. Under the proposed measure an entirely new set of officers would be chosen every two years.
As the result of a splinter striking him in the eye while chopping wood, which injury made it necessary to remove the injured member, Joseph Connel, a well-known farmer of Mount Tabor, has made three attempts to commit suicide at Wisconsin where he had gone for treatment. Connel is thirty-five years old and has a family. He has made threats to end his life and his mind appears to be unbalanced as a result of the shock.
Falling over a chair in his room, Stegrin Olson, aged 91 years, sustained injuries which may prove fatal. Olson is faithfully attended by his wife who is 81 years old. The couple are perhaps the oldest in this city having been married in Norway sixty-two years ago last December. Mrs. Olson says that she may not be left a widow but will die when her husband does. They have no children but an adopted daughter.

THREAT OF WAR IN THE BALKANS

IS BECOMING MORE OMINOUS DAY BY DAY.

PROCLAMATION OF SERBIA

Against Austria Has Excited 'All of the Chancelleries of Europe—Peace of Europe Endangered.'

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., March 17.—The latest despatches from the great European centers indicate that the war cloud in the Balkans is daily becoming more ominous and menacing. The warlike proclamation issued by the Serbians against Austria has excited all of the chancelleries of Europe and there is no concealing the general fear that it is likely to lead to an early outbreak of actual hostilities.
How this crisis that threatens the peace of the whole Europe has been brought about is briefly set forth in the following statement, which will give the average American reader a better understanding of the main facts in the situation than he probably has been able to gain from the flood of cable news during the past few days. Austria, in annexing Bosnia and Herzegovina, provinces inhabited almost wholly by Serbs, stated that she was merely regularizing the long-accomplished fact of her possession and virtual government of the two countries. Austria further contends that she has only to settle matters with Turkey, the ancient and nominal ruler of the provinces in question, and that Serbia has nothing to say in the matter, as she was no party to the Treaty of Berlin, and has suffered no territorial loss.
Serbia, on the other hand, declares that the violation by Austria of the Treaty of Berlin, devised to secure peace and security for all the Balkan states, menaces vital Serb interests and reduces her to a position of absolute dependency upon the goodwill of Austria; that Serbia, as the head of the Serb people, is entitled to ask Europe to insist upon guarantees for the rights and liberties of the Balkans, and for such concessions from Austria as will secure Serbian independence, political and economic.
France, Russia and England, as signatories of the Treaty of Berlin, are prepared to make representations to Vienna, on the understanding that they are not treated as unfriendly nations. Italy sympathizes with Serbia, but Germany dissuades Austria from listening to these overtures and pressing for the execution of Serbia, to which the others will not consent. Russia has clearly intimated that public opinion will not allow her to be indifferent if Austria makes an attempt to crush Serbia.

Rockefeller to the enlisted men of the United States navy, was formally dedicated today with interesting ceremonies. The building is a handsome structure of brick and stone and contains a large auditorium, reading rooms, gymnasium, swimming pool and other conveniences and equipment of an up-to-date clubhouse.

Shows Results of THE YEAR'S LABORS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 17.—Strict and thorough inspection of the bakeries of the state has brought notable results in the way of increased sanitation and remedying of intolerable conditions, according to the biennial report of the state bakery inspector, issued today by J. D. Beck, commissioner of labor and statistics. The report is the first to be rendered under the license system for the control and sanitation of bakeries, and in the opinion of the commissioner it indicates a "wonderful development" of the bakery industry in the state.

During the first year, out of 888 bakeries who applied for licenses, 450 were granted permits, having required with the necessary sanitary requirements. During that year also (1907) thirty were prosecuted and convictions secured in every case—21 in Milwaukee, four in Kenosha, two in Madison and one each in Racine, La Crosse, Superior and Oshkosh. Two thousand orders issued during this period meant the entire remodeling of nineteen establishments, the abandonment of twenty and great improvements in furniture and utensils and general overhauling in a majority of the bakeries of the state.

Many bakeries were found to occupy the first floors or basements of dilapidated, tumble-down store buildings that had been abandoned for other uses. Many portions of such shops were subdivided, some rooms being used for the storage of old rags and junk, and others were used as sleeping rooms, providing excellent breeding places for tuberculosis and other diseases. "To correct these evils," says the report, "among a class of people whose standard of living is low, has been a difficult problem."

The report also contains the proceedings of the first "bakers' institute," which was held under the auspices of the extension department of the university and addressed by several well-known members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin.

Irish Troops Take A Day's Leave In England—Big Parade In New York—Double Celebration In Boston.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, March 17.—The St. Patrick's Day demonstration in this city today was the most notable ever seen here and in many respects it differed materially from similar celebrations in the past. The chief feature of the program, as heretofore, was the big parade, but this year the parade was given much more of a military character than has been the custom. The procession was headed by the Sixty-ninth regiment, which was followed by the Irish Volunteers, the Irishmen Rifles and other military bodies in uniform, including numerous companies of cadets from the various Roman Catholic schools of Greater New York. The parade was reviewed by Mayor McClellan, Archbishop Farley and other notables.
Celebration In England.
London, March 17.—The shamrock and other Irish emblems were much in evidence in London today and the celebration of St. Patrick's Day appeared to be more general than usual. The Irish flag was flying from many buildings, and special services were held in all the Roman Catholic churches. The Irish troops at the various garrisons were given a day's leave. Queen Alexandra, following the precedent established by Queen Victoria, sent to the battalion of Irish Guards on duty at the Tower of London, a large quantity of shamrocks, which were distributed to the men at parade.

Boston's Double Festival.
Boston, Mass., March 17.—Boston's annual double-barreled celebration of St. Patrick's Day and the anniversary of the evacuation of the city by the British in 1776 was marked today by the customary spirited military display and flow of oratory. The celebration centered as usual in South Boston, where the fortifications of the revolution were erected on Dorchester Heights and from which the Americans watched the departure of the British troops on the morning of March 17, 1776.
The celebration program included anniversary exercises in the public schools, speech-making and a big parade in which the National Guard, soldiers of the regular army, patriotic societies and sailors and marines from the warships at the Charlestown navyyard took part. During the forenoon there were the usual salutes and ringing of bells.

SEEK PRIVILEGE TO BUILD A POWER DAM

Two Chippewa Falls Men Would Build on Power Site of Badger Mill on Chippewa River.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chippewa Falls, March 17.—Messrs. Irving Sears and Charles Dickinson are meeting a hearty response from business men and citizens in circulating a petition to secure a privilege for a dam at the Badger Mills water power site on the Chippewa river.
The dam will furnish water power for a plant of the Menasha Woodmenware company to be erected in this city. It will be a permanent industry and the citizens look upon it as a good thing for the city. Col. L. J. Back says a dam at the Badger Mills site will not in any way back water into this city. The fact that Col. Back is a practical surveyor and assisted in laying out this city's sewer system, gives his opinion weight.
The Dells Paper and Pulp company of Eau Claire are opposing the establishment of this dam. The Dells company want to raise their dam at Eau Claire four feet higher and if a dam is put in at Badger Mills, they cannot do this. Already the Dells company have raised their dam eight feet higher than they are legally entitled to do.
No bonus is asked by the Menasha Woodmenware company. If this dam is built it will give Chippewa Falls as fine a boating harbor of four or five miles in length, as can be found in this country.

The Recount Matter

HUGE FORGERY PLOT SPOILED

$2,000,000 IN FRAUDULENT NOTES AND CHECKS.

TAKEN FROM ITALIAN GANG

Of International Swindlers, Four Ringleaders of Which Were Captured at Milan.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, March 17.—Startling developments concerning the extensive operations of the international gang of forgers of checks and banknotes, four ringleaders of which are under arrest at Milan, continue to come to the surface as a result of the international police investigation now in progress. As stated at the time of the arrests a week ago the operations of the gang were confined chiefly to New York and London.
The capture of the four leaders was due to the mistakings of Signor Polotti, a very skillful lithographer, whom the forgers had entrusted with the engraving of an immense number of checks, varying in value from $10 to $200 apiece, which they represented were required by the American Express Company for its branch establishments in Rome, Genoa and Naples. In Italy, December, after a series of frauds at Genoa amounting to $500,000, they presented a letter of credit of the Commercial Bank of Milan for $15,000 on a firm of private bankers in New York. The culprits have again and again exploited the New York bank, and the Milan police are convinced from a mass of documents and stamps now seized at their lodgings that this criminal gang must have had one or more accomplices in the employ of the bank itself.
Four members of the gang were caught red-handed. They are all middle-aged, well-dressed men of Italian origin, though a considerable part of their career has been spent in the United States and Great Britain. They had in their possession newly-made bank notes and checks of the total value of over $2,000,000, which they were about to forward to confederates in New York and London for circulation.
Orfeo Origiani, one of the ring-leaders under arrest, comes of a well-known Naples family and formerly was an artillery officer in the Italian army. He is a nephew of the famous General Mattiotti. He has been a consular agent and representative of various commercial firms in Japan and North America.
The Milan police are elated at the capture, but regret that many members of the gang are still at large, though they have clues which are expected to prove useful in the police of New York, London and Paris.

ANOTHER BIT OF ANCIENT HISTORY

JANESVILLE AS IT WAS IN THE
EARLY FIFTIES.

JOSIAH WRIGHT'S ARTICLE

Deals with Many Reminiscences of the Fire Department and Other Important Events of Early Days.

In the second of the series of interesting articles on the past glories of Janesville, Josiah Wright had many amusing reminiscences of the early days of the department and other public events in the history of the city. Mr. Wright is peculiarly well fitted to prepare these sketches and they prove most interesting reading for all who are interested in the city.

Young people as well as their elders coming to Janesville in the early fifties were warmly received. Our predecessors were largely from New England and states of New York and Pennsylvania. Private companies were of frequent occurrence, given by the young ladies for gents of tender years, it being tacitly understood, for the purpose of inspection.

People generally were well and contented and had no difficulty in finding good friends. We were all strangers in a strange land. The churches were only too glad to welcome those of like faith, and it was not long before we began to feel quite at home and to have caught their spirit of welcome to others. It was not long before the writer joined two organizations, and with the exception of the Y. M. C. A. organized in 1858, four years later, the only ones—the Congregational church and the Washington fire Co., the former for spiritual and intellectual improvement, the latter for fire protection and physical exercise. The engine was a small affair, a hand-pumped one, with room for fifteen or twenty on a side, the more weight brought to bear on the downward movement the greater the pressure. The "Washington" occupied the house still in use by the hose company on River street, while our rival, the "Water Witch," on the east side. We practiced regularly and often would battle with the other by connecting the two, and pumping; the vanquished one would be flooded, while the victors carried off the broom—great rejoicing, and cheering particularly, emphasized by the eagle screams of such giants as Jimmy Connors and Charlie Wind.

Those voices of the past, how they still come prancing down the years, reverbating like distant thunder.
Janes is still on deck, but Charlie is gone. With the present fire equipments our efforts seem quite feeble, but whenever we could get good suction within a few blocks of a fire we would send streams of water that would quench it. What we most needed was heavy men; had too many lightweights, but such are up everywhere, even in the halls of legislation; they are all needed, but not where home, muscle and avoidance these are required. Could we have had Roosevelt, Taft, Bryan, White head and Cleveland, how they would have made her shake, and we would never have been defeated. Our need was for men equal to Richard the third who pathetically cried: "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse."

The engines arrived together June 25, 1856. The Washington's uniform —leather helmets, red shirts, black trousers, red top boots; the Water Witch—the same, excepting trousers which were white. There was no lack of interest in organizing and the quota soon filled, leaving many disappointed ones outside. Could the present fire boys with their exceedingly cheap uniforms of blue suits and brass buttons have seen what white on dress parade, doubtless their faces would turn green with envy. The roster: Washington, No.
1—W. H. Holden, Pres.; J. D. Rexford, Vice-Pres.; J. H. Vermilye, Treas.; J. Justin, chief engineer; W.
H. Britton, 1st Asst.; W. S. Chase, 2d Asst., engineer. Water Witch, No.
2—Wm. Kemp, foreman; John B.
Peck, Asst.; B. B. Eldredge, Sec.; C.
H. Whit, Treas.; H. Higgins, engineer; T. H. Woodcraft, stoward.

The writer's only remaining article of uniform, so highly prized, is the red jacket. Had we a historical society and museum, it would give him much pleasure to present it as a memorandum to the first-fighters of the middle of the last century.

On the fourth of July following, the Milwaukee Fire Co., No. 3, visited Janesville as our guest. Their fine work challenged our admiration. We wondered if we would ever be able to throw water as they did over the highest buildings. As ours was the only public organization, we were called upon by the mayor to assist on state occasions. We paraded the streets each fourth (following the usual course laid out by the citizens), always bringing up in front of the city park, where we were entertained, but there was no Mrs. Day to favor us poor hungry mortals with a bit of the intellectual pabulum, no Col.
Kimberley to present in song the substantiating patriotic lyrics. We did have, and it was appreciated, a reflect of old revolutionary airs rendered in their most exquisite manner by the drum and fife corps. "And Lang Syne" was on the whole the favorite. We were expected without compensation to stand with uncovered head in the broiling July sun from about 11 o'clock to 12 and hear some eloquent dissertation on the dark ages or brilliant-historical recollections of the coming and going of Black Hawk.
The speakers with their themes are gone and it is to be hoped their addresses and subjects are lost from sight, never to be resurrected.

When Dr. Trent was mayor a very amusing thing occurred. In front of the park about where the watering tank stands, no cement walks but great boards as large as a cow stepped out on end on which our "commander in chief" climbed and stood, relaying a little too much on his hind legs. "Gentlemen of the fire department ladies and fellow citizens," he began, "I have the gold on thoughts would then come, repeated, but they did not. Putting his hand in coat-pocket with greater assurance, said: "Perhaps you think I am busted, but I've got it here." The doctor was a good politician and excellent physician, but stage fright seized him this time, as it has many another before and since.

The two companies celebrated each year with an annual party. They were the thing. Mrs. Wright mother of F. L. had three brothers in the Water Witch company, and has preserved several invitations printed with ornamentations of gold and groups of dancers beautifully executed, the figures exquisitely colored. She says the halls were decorated with evergreens and colors of many kinds.
Nearly at the end of the hall was suspended a bell hidden from sight with decorations, and the rope hanging. When at a particular time of the dance the bell would be rung, a sign for a stop and cry of "Fire!"
When the performers would proceed with their festivities.

During the murder trial of Mayberry, after the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, Judge Deltelle deferred sentence until next day, there being a large crowd of raftsmen in the city who had come for ven-ueance. Mayor Dimock ordered an out to protect the jail. Muskets of every kind were given us. At about 11 o'clock a committee of raftsmen came and told us we need not stay as guards, as they had decided to do nothing until next day, after sentence was pronounced.

We took stock in what they said and all went home. After a good night's rest and breakfast we went back on duty. Sentence was given at 10 o'clock but the raftsmen came down to jail until about when Sheriff Dabillon and his officers or guards started. In the meantime the raftsmen were stretched out under the trees. At a signal all were on their feet and made a double line through which they must pass. Upon entering the line Mayberry pulled off a boot and struck out both ways, when an old man cried out "I am the father of ten children—here I go!" throwing a lasso over his head. The rope was caught and raised down the hill—one end, Mayberry; the other, the boys. At the foot of the hill a little west of the present fountain was a gully dug out by rains, which the crowd crossed when Mayberry tried to get up to stumble down the gully to his death on an oak tree on the hill on the south side. The boys threw a rope over a limb and pulled the almost lifeless body up. Some thinking he wanted to make a confession, let the body down, but he was too far gone, and then there was an appeal for someone to tie a hankman's knot. No one volunteered; although there was one that could have done so, but would not stain his hands with his blood. The body was collected away and the tree cut by collectors, who carried it all away, root and branches. This ended the worst and most enforced trial that has been experienced in this state. Janesville, benefited for situation and comfort, the wild woods life, peaceable with all men, generous to all appeals, long suffering and kind, to have a bird of ill-omen light in our midst, caused us in its day grief untold. We were reminded on the train and in other cities of our misfortune to have such a reckless class of citizens. There was no one more thoroughly grieved than our long-remembered editor of the Gazette —Charlie Holt.

CARRIAGE COMPANY
TO ENLARGE PLANT

Between Twenty and Twenty-five Thousand Dollars to Be Put Into Addition.

Between twenty and twenty-five thousand dollars will be expended in an addition to the plant of the Wisconsin Carriage Company should the city council grant the petition for an overhead runway by means of which the carriage company propose to connect the new addition with the old building. This petition was presented to the common council and was referred to the committee on highways, and Chairman Sheridan asked and was granted two weeks to consider the proposition.

The company has secured an option on the piece of real estate opposite their factory on West Milwaukee street, extending one hundred feet on West Milwaukee street and one hundred and eighty on Locust street.
Upon this piece of land it is proposed to erect a three-story and basement brick building, and connect it with the old factory with a runway over Milwaukee street. The runway, should the petition be granted, will be of steel, twenty-four feet above the road and supported by steel pillars set as close to the curb as possible.
The proposed addition, which will greatly increase the production of the factory, has been contemplated for some time. The past season, an unusually prosperous one, and the bright prospects for the future, finally convinced the officials that in order to fill their orders, a larger plant was needed. The company first endeavored to secure the land north of the factory which belongs to the North-Western R. R. Failing in this,

DIDN'T REALIZE
How Injurious Coffee Really Was.

Many persons go on drinking coffee year after year without realizing that it is the cause of many obscure but persistent ailments.

The drug—caffeine—in coffee and tea, is very like uric acid and is often the cause of rheumatic attacks which, when coffee is used habitually, become chronic.

A Washington lady said, recently:
"I am sixty-five and have had a good deal of experience with coffee. I consider it very injurious and the cause of many disease. I am sure it causes decay of the teeth in children."

"When I drank coffee," said sick spells and still did not realize that coffee could be so harmful. I about a year ago I had rheumatism in my arms and fingers, got so nervous I could not sleep and was all run down.
At last, after finding that medicine did me no good, I decided to quit coffee entirely and try Postum. After using it six months I fully recovered my health beyond all expectations, can sleep sound and my rheumatism is all gone. "There's a Reason."

they determined to build across the street from their present quarters. In order to get the full advantage from the new building, a means of communication between the two buildings was needed, hence the petition to the council. It was stated (today by one of the officials of the company) that if the council refused to allow the construction of a runway the proposed addition would in all probability be abandoned.

TOUR OF THE WORLD
WITH LYMAN P. HOWE

Was Thoroughly Enjoyed by a Big Audience at the Myers Theatre
Last Evening.

For serious-minded people as well as those who wish merely to be interested, the wonderful exhibition of the Lyman P. Howe moving pictures has become one of the red letter events in the local entertainment encyclopaedia. And they never disappoint.
Each offering, indeed, is so surprisingly good as to seem a little better than the previous one.

Last evening a big audience watched the evolutions of Wright's aero-plane and the thrilling Grand Prix auto race in France; the parade of the Khedive and his eucalypt escort, and the procession of the Sacred Carpet in Egypt, not to mention side trips along the Nile, to the great pyramid of Giza and the Sphinx, and little visits to the primitive abodes of the people.

The end of the remarkable journey through Italy before the earthquake was succeeded by a terrible display of thunder and explosions, the curtain remaining blank during the interval, and then piano and violin began to softly play some composition from Mendelssohn, plaintive and thrilling with helpless, hopeless grief, as the terrible scenes of devastation were unrolled.

Following the earthquake pictures came a trip through Russia, revealing Moscow before and after a big flood, and near and familiar views of the great palaces and cathedrals, the soldiers, and the people. Some marvelous exploits by a troop of Italian cavalrymen were the main offering of the evening.

There were numerous well selected comedy films, that of the flycatchers being one of the most notable, and the "comploters" behind the curtain imitated every jargon and noise from sacred cow's signal of distress to the trickle or roar of running water.

CHARTS AND MODELS
SHOWN IN LIBRARY

Anti-Tuberculosis Exhibit of University Extension Division—Many Charts and Views.

Yesterday afternoon at the library the exhibit of the University extension division, in regard to tuberculosis, was opened by the public and was inspected by a large number of the school students, mostly grade school children although there were several high school students present. The notice of the arrival of the exhibit was widely known in all of the schools and the scholars seem to take an interest in the charts and models which the demonstrators have. In the evening there were more grown folks than yesterday.

The principal purpose of the exhibition is to educate people and to arouse them to fight against this dread disease and not only to fight against it but to protect themselves from it by sanitary measures, by good living and taking care of the health. It is for this purpose that the charts and models are shown.

The charts, of which there are eight, show the different phases of the malady in man and beast, the percentage of prevalence among different races and among those of different trades. The danger which ensues for persons living in crowded tenements, those who are intemperate, and those who keep all fresh air away from them, is shown in the charts and models. There are a number of especially fine views of the sanatorium to which consumptive patients are sent and which illustrate the methods by which cures are effected.

Today was "High School Day" at the library as the scholars of the high school attended the exhibition and listened to a talk by the demonstrator. Among other things taken up were: the bacteriological side of the question, how tuberculosis is spread and how to cure it and prevent its growth.

Tonight the best part of the whole demonstration will be given in Library Hall, where Dr. Deenholt, of Milwaukee, will lecture on the subject, Tuberculosis. Dr. Deenholt's talk will be general and will deal with all phases of the subject and will state particularly the physician's point of view.
Dr. Deenholt has made a study of the disease and is well prepared to speak on the topic. At this meeting Dr. S.
B. Luckmaster will preside.

MONROE GAS PLANT
WILL BE IMPROVED

Chicago Engineer Is In That City Securing Data For New Plans and Specifications.

Monroe, Wis., March 17.—An improved water gas system will be installed by the Monroe Gas company, which has been supplying its patrons with a mixture of coal and gasoline gas. An engineer of the Schmitt Engineering company, of Chicago, was here gathering data upon which to perfect plans and specifications for a water gas plant suitable to the needs of the company. The company will also put in two or three more miles of mains. Operations will begin as soon as practicable.

Edward Rice, who was called to tion of the pure food law in making shipment of dressed calves to Chicago, was dismissed pending investigawas contained. Mr. Rice admits that the calf was light in weight but claims it was two or three weeks old. He thinks he will hear nothing more of the matter.

HITS AT HARRIMAN; HEARING RESUMED

Rail Combine Bad Declares
a Federal Witness.

COMPETITION AT AN END

Hearing of Testimony to Dissolve Merger of Union and Southern Pacific Lines Develops Important Evidence for the Government.

Chicago, Mar. 17.—Special Examiner Sylvester G. Williams, who is taking testimony in the government's suit to dissolve the merger of the Union and Southern Pacific railways, Harriman lines, resumed the hearing today.

Thus far evidence has been taken in New York, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, by order of the United States circuit court at Salt Lake City, where the original proceedings were instituted with the filing of a bill in equity January 28, 1908, under the direction of the then attorney general, Charles J. Bonaparte. The testimony offered by the witnesses called yesterday by C. A. Severance, special assistant to the attorney general, who is prosecuting the case for the government, disclosed the fact that the amalgamation of the offices of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads resulted in a change, which eliminated much of what, under separate control, was keen and active competition.

The first witness to take the stand was J. A. Wentz, a retired railroad man. Attorney Severance qualified the witness by asking him to relate his railroad experience, which extended over a long period of years.

Wentz told of former competition. Mr. Wentz at one time was in the employ of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad, as commercial agent both at Chicago and Kansas City. He testified that prior to 1901, when it is alleged, Mr. Harriman and his associates formed the western railroad combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, competition among western lines was free. But, following the placing of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific roads under one control, a great deal of such competition was eliminated.

Attorney Severance conducted the examination of Mr. Wentz for the government. Judge R. G. Lovett appeared as counsel for the Union Pacific and the other defendants named in the dissolution suit.

"While you were in the employ of the Rock Island road did you solicit Pacific coast business, Mr. Wentz?" questioned Attorney Severance.

"Yes," replied the witness. "Prior to the time the Rock Island completed its extensions west from the Missouri river we did all our business over the Union Pacific and the Great Northern. We attempted to obtain long hauls by way of El Paso, but we were obliged to give up to the Union Pacific and often too the Atchafalaya, Tupaca & Santa Fe road."

On shipments destined to Oregon, Mr. Wentz stated, a routing by way of the Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Great Northern was made. The matter of competition was then gone into by Attorney Severance. In reply to questions, the witness stated that before the forming of the alleged combination, the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific operated separate agencies for the solicitation of business.

Says Offices Were Consolidated. W. G. Neimeyer was shown to be in charge of the Southern Pacific office at that time in Chicago and W. H. Knight, at the head of the soliciting force of the Union Pacific road in this city, and the so-called Chicago territory.

"How was competition between the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific at that time?" asked Attorney Severance.

"There was a great deal of competition, I thought. I know the Rock Island felt the effects of it," Mr. Wentz replied, confidently.

The witness was then taken by Judge Lovett, counsel for the defense, and while he was closely cross-examined, he did not in the least qualify his statements relative to the doing away of competition as a result of the discontinuance of the separate agencies of the Union and Southern Pacific lines.

Carson City, Nev., Mar. 17.—The federal grand jury has returned an indictment against the Southern Pacific railroad on a charge of granting secret rebates to the California Sugar and White Pine agency. Fifteen counts are mentioned, and the total fine could be $300,000.

Attempt to Assassinate Mayor. Pass Christian, Miss., Mar. 17.—Two unidentified men attempted to assassinate Mayor E. J. Adams. One of the men was bounding over Mayor Adams with an upraised knife when Mrs. Adams awoke and screamed. The men were frightened off and escaped.

Wisconsin Man Slays Brother. Eau Claire, Wis., Mar. 17.—Joseph Fox was shot dead last night by his brother, Henry Fox, a dismissed policeman, who then shot himself twice through the head, inflicting probably fatal wounds. A family quarrel caused the shooting.

Egan to Head Soo Line. Minneapolis, Minn., Mar. 17.—John M. Egan, for a number of years general manager of the Chicago Great Western railroad, probably will succeed Edmund Pennington as vice-president and general manager of the Soo line.

HEMINGWAY REPLIES.

Lincoln says, when a person misrepresents you you are up to get angry, but when the misrepresentation is gross and very palpable it only amuses you. The article by Messrs. Jones and Moore has afforded me considerable amusement. Their attempt to gain public favor for their consolidation scheme suggests the man who caught a Tartar and wanted some one to help him let go.

Their anxiety to inform the public is commendable; but why did they not take the public into their confidence while perfecting their little plan? I should treat their communication with the contempt it deserves were it not for the fact that it contains so many misrepresentations. I wish the public informed, not misinformed.

They misrepresent when they say I have publicly and privately misrepresented the county board.

I have no quarrel with the county board as a board. I yield to no man in my respect for a large majority of that body. I have not and will not misrepresent them; but that there might be no misunderstanding, I have named those who are primarily responsible for the condition of school affairs at present; and I'll continue to turn out the light.

The ostensible cause of our present controversy is the word "school." Jones and Moore falsely state I secured a "snip" interpretation. In January, 1908, Antisdel asked the District Attorney what "school" meant; and the latter asked the State Superintendent. The question was answered by the lawyer in the State Superintendent's office and the answer was sent to the District Attorney who approved of the definition of a school as a teacher and the pupils under his immediate supervision and instruction. The interpretation PERMITTED the board to provide a deputy. Last May, my district authorized the appointment of a deputy. The law of course has not been changed.

November 12 the second district authorized Antisdel to appoint a deputy. No objection as to legality. Next morning Jones launched into a personal attack upon me in an effort to have my district rescind its action.

Mr. Jones is not a supervisor from my district and has no more legal or moral right to interfere in the affairs of the first district than he has in those of Milwaukee County. Yet, people will recall that no attack has been made on me in which Jones was not a conspicuous performer, and generally the leader, "restless in his determined desire for notoriety," as he assures me upon every occasion that there is nothing personal in it. The following day Sup. Tulgar of First District moved that my appointment for deputy be held up pending an investigation as to its "legality." Sup. Paul did same for Second district. Mr. Moore moved that a committee be appointed and at his suggestion a special attorney was employed. Just why $25.00 was expended for that purpose when the county has a paid attorney who had already given his opinion, I am not able to say.

The special attorney asked the Attorney General for his interpretation and the District Attorney "explained circumstances under which request was made." The Attorney General ruled that "school" did not mean what the State Superintendent, the District Attorney and we superintendents thought it meant, and consequently the county had no legal right to make the appropriation; and Mr. Moore made a typewritten report of approximately four pages, ONE paragraph of which was devoted to "legality" (the committee was appointed to determine that question only); nearly a page to advocating a consolidation of the two districts and the remainder to a personal attack upon me.

The intent of the whole report was so obvious that the board forced the committee to withdraw it, with the exception of paragraph pertaining to "legality." These different discussions consumed two days or more. Not received county out $250.00 to $275.00 and the deputy who had performed her services before report was made, and most of them before committee was appointed, was deprived of her legitimate salary; and no money could be appropriated for diploma examinations. Their claim that county was saved $400 is absurd. The board was under no obligation to vote these appropriations and by merely refusing to, this whole trouble and expense could have been avoided, but that method wouldn't have given Jones and Moore a chance to get in the limelight and make an attack on me.

They falsely state that I spent one-third of my time as a lobbyist in 1907. I was elected chairman of the legislative committee of County Superintendents' Association. I made perhaps twenty trips to Madison, never more than a day each, and appeared before the committee on education ten or a dozen times. Possibly I may have been guilty of neglect of duty in seeking better school laws, and in defeating obnoxious ones.

They attack me because I worked for the $50.00 law. That was to be expected. Everybody who knows anything about the law claims it has done more for the country schools than any other law of the last twenty-five years. I quote one of the most observing and critical editors (S. Y. Gilliam, Milwaukee): "The wisest and most effective piece of school legislation enacted during the administration of Supt. Cary and PROBABLY the ONE FEATURE for which his administration will be most favorably remembered is" this $50.00 law. "The effect has been to greatly improve the conditions in country schools."

They lately accuse me of not working to secure diploma legislation in 1907. If they will turn to bill No. 139 S., they will find a bill drawn by me providing for diploma examinations at the expense of the county, introduced by Sen. Hazelwood, passed by both houses and VETOED by the Governor.

They attempt to deprive my statement in regard to NET salary by pretending to quote Supt. Antisdel. I said, "To do the work as effectively as it has been done, the official will have to forfeit $300.00." I did not say "to hold office." There is a difference. There is no great scramble for the position. There is not a candidate (and there will not be one) who is getting more than $1000.00. This indicates what school men think the NET salary is.

Mr. Moore complained before the board that the county had had "a plague of superintendents." If that be true, then, in all likelihood, the county will have a single plug for the most term; and if so, Mr. Moore where does it benefit the public or the schools?

They object that I did not mention the deputy. They assume that a deputy will be a mere stenographer. The deputy must have a first grade certificate, a year's experience in teaching. Add to this "stenographic ability" and you have a hard condition to secure at $50.00 per month.

Messrs. Jones and Moore complain I am violating the statute. If they really believe it, why do they not file charges and have me removed? The public is tired of their lies, their trifling, and their irrelevant charges and of the tactics above disclosed.

Messrs. Jones and Moore evidently have not tried to state the truth, because the evidence is at hand, hence their misstatements must be due to malice.

ROTARY MEASURE IS BEING CONSIDERED

Manner in Which Names Are to Appear Upon Primary Ballot Is Under Discussion.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 17.—The McConnell bill for the definition of names on the primary ballot is receiving favorable consideration by the legislature. "This bill is intended to correct one of the most serious defects in our primary law," said Assemblyman McConnell in discussing the merits of the bill in an interview today. "As the law now stands, the names of all candidates for each particular office are placed upon the ballot in alphabetical order. Experience has shown that this arrangement gives a considerable advantage to the candidate, whose name gives him first place. So great is this advantage that candidates are sometimes urged to run because their names begin with one of the first letters of the alphabet, and it seems to be a fact beyond dispute that the advantages of first place may be important enough to turn the scale, particularly in the case of state officers."

"While less serious in county elections the alphabetical arrangement of names is unreasonable and unfair in all elections and some plan of rotation must be devised. The plan provided in bill 403a, will, I believe, work out satisfactorily."

The essentials of the McConnell bill aimed to do away with the alphabetical idea provide that for the purpose of determining the order in which the names of candidates, for each office, shall be placed upon the primary ballot, the secretary of state shall number the assembly districts, consecutively from one to one hundred in the order of their population, according to the last preceding census, beginning with the district having the largest population, which shall be numbered one.

The county clerk shall place on the ballot the names of all candidates to be voted for in the precincts of his county. The names certified by the secretary of state shall be arranged in the order in which they are certified. The names of candidates for whom nomination papers have been filed in the office of the county clerk shall be arranged in a hereinafter provided order for the purpose of determining the order in which the names of candidates for each office for whom nomination papers have been filed in the office of the county clerk, shall be placed on the primary ballot, the county clerk shall prepare a list of the election precincts of his county. Such lists shall be prepared by arranging the various towns, cities and villages of the county in alphabetical order and the wards and precincts of each city, village or town in numerical order under the name of such city, village or town.

The county clerk shall arrange the names of all candidates for each office for whom nomination papers have been filed in his office, alphabetically, for the first precinct in the list; thereafter, for each succeeding precinct the names appearing first for each office in the last preceding precinct shall be placed last.

Heart to Heart Talks.

IS WOMAN OLD AT FORTY?

A Chicago young woman's club has drawn the line of membership at forty years of age. When a member crosses that line she becomes an honorary member only.

Is a woman old at forty?

These Chicago women have partly answered that question. They fought valiantly against being declared old, but they were outvoted.

Whether or not a woman is old at forty depends.

It depends upon the woman. Some are old at thirty, others are young at fifty. It is not true that a woman is "as old as she looks," for some mature dames, by ways that are cute and tricks that are wise, make themselves look like girls.

A bright old lady of seventy was asked her age. She promptly replied, "Thirty-five." Afterward she added, "The house I live in is older than that."

Age is a thing of the spirit, not of the flesh. To renew the spirit is to renew the youth. Loss of spirit is loss of life. Old age is loss of spirit.

That woman who has lost the zest of life, whose youthful spirit has been dulled, is old, whatever her years.

At forty a woman should be at her best. She has learned by actual experience the things of life that are worth while.

If a woman ever learns the philosophy of life she has learned it at forty. She has discovered the difference between the real and the artificial, and only the real engages her attention.

The woman of forty has found that certain things are bound to happen and that she cannot help their happening. And if she has learned wisdom she has made up her mind to take things as they come.

The woman of forty should learn to look for the best of life. If she looks for the best she will find it. If she looks for the worst she will find that—and grow old grumbling about it.

The woman who is determined to keep the fine edge of youthful endeavor and the fine dash of youthful enthusiasm will do it. She may be fifty or sixty or seventy years of age, but a gray haired, youthful optimist.

No, a woman is not old at forty—unless she tries to be.

And the recipe for youthfulness is not dress, nor stays, nor cosmetics, nor wrinkle eradicators. It goes deeper. She keeps young in soul.

BIG POW WOW ON N. PEARL STREET

Mrs. Hannah Peters Tried to Prevent Hugh Wagner and Wife from Moving Out with Children.

Neighbors of Mrs. Hannah Peters, who resides at 21 North Pearl street, informed the police department over the telephone this morning that a terrible fight was in progress there and that someone would be killed if it wasn't stopped. Chief Appleby and Officer Chapman hastened to the scene but found all was quiet upon their arrival. Hugh Wagner and his wife, however, came along presently and told about the outbreak of hostilities. They had been rooming in the second story of Mrs. Peters' house; had been ordered to move out; and were attempting to do so when she interfered. Some question of unpaid room rent was at the bottom of the difficulty. The two officers insisted that the fight started out of the place, Mrs. Peters' hotbeds, loudly berating and abusing her former tenants as she tossed articles of wearing apparel, crockery, etc., out of the windows. The Chief finally warned her that she would be taken to the lock-up if she did not desist.

SUGAR PRICES HAVE TAKEN A BIG JUMP

Costs Five Dollars and Six Cents Per Hundred Pounds Delivered in Janesville.

Within the past few days sugar has taken a wonderful jump in price on the eastern market. From a fairly low price of $1.25 per hundred a few days ago it reached $1.75 per hundred today, which means $5.00 per hundred delivered in Janesville. It is even reported that it will go higher and Mr. Lawson of the Janesville Wholesale Grocery says brokers have wired him to this effect this morning. What effect the proposed reduction in tariff on sugar will have on the prices remains to be seen.

The Future Vocation.

It is customary in Spain when an infant first begins to notice things to place before it a silver coin, a sword, a silver cross, a book and some fruit. The object to which the child stretches his hand indicates, according to accepted belief, his future vocation. The coin is for commerce, the sword for the army, the cross and the book respectively point to the church and the law or learning, while the fruit denotes a farmer or landowner.

NO TRACES YET OF PHIL ROGNER

Plumber Who Disappeared in a Mysterious Fashion Last Thursday Night Has Not Been Found.

No traces have yet been found of Philip Rogner, an employee of the Fred E. Green plumbing establishment, who disappeared in a mysterious fashion last Thursday evening. Officer Sam Brown appears to have been the last person who saw him. Shortly before eleven o'clock Rogner went to Thos. Abbott's saloon and secured $20 in money which he had left there for safe keeping, a bottle of whiskey, and a box of cigars. He then boarded a hack from the Ryan livery and told the driver to take him to his quarters at Fred H. Baumann's home, 646 South Main street. When the rik arrived there he accused the driver of being drunk and ordered him to get out of the place, insisting that the street was on was not South Main street at all. The boy drove back to the barn and admittance was refused at the livery barn when Rogner wandered back and tried to stir up a row. Officer Sam Brown got the man started toward home again. At that time the bottle of whiskey and cigars had disappeared. Rogner at one time worked for McVear Bros. and it is said that on one occasion he disappeared for a whole month.

CHIMNEY FIRE AT THE MYERS THEATRE

Department Was Summoned During Progress of Entertainment Last Night—Audience None the Wiser.

Unbeknown to the audience witnessing the entertainment last evening, a fire got started in the chimney of the Myers theatre and the department was summoned at the alarm about half-past eight o'clock. It was put out in short order with salt. Knowing that the only danger lay in the possibility of a stampede, the management kept the doors closed until the wagons retired from the scene and none within the play-house were the wiser. The Elias' lodge rooms, however, were deserted for a few minutes.

A FEARLESS, HONEST PREACHER GIVES HIS OPINION OF PE-RU-NA.

An Up-to-Date Clergyman Describes an Up-to-Date Household Remedy that Has Had the Test of Time and Is Known the World Over.

Some preachers are afraid to give an outspoken opinion on any remedy, however highly they may esteem it. Others are not afraid.

One of those who is not afraid is quoted below. Read what he says. It means every word of it. If you doubt it write him a letter, enclosing a stamp. He will tell you what he thinks.

Catharth of Stomach.

Rev. J. T. PEELER, Hendersonville, N. C., writes:

"I desire to make known for the benefit of suffering humanity my experience with Peru-na."

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the stomach, and though I tried many remedies and applied to several doctors, it was all in vain."

"I had it not been for Peru-na I believe I would have been in my grave today."

"I have every reason to believe that Peru-na is the greatest remedy for catarrh known to the world. Therefore I have been, and shall continue to recommend it to those who are unwell."

REV. J. O. DUKES, Pastor of the Methodist Church at Pinetown, N. C., writes:

"My wife has been in a very bad state of health for several years, and nothing seemed to do her any good until she began to use Peru-na one month ago. Since then the color has returned to her face, and she is gaining in flesh every day, and I believe she is a well woman today."

"My little boy, ten years old, was pale and had but little life. He began to use Peru-na the day his mother began. Today his face is rosy, and he is out in the yard running and jumping with the rest of the children."

Rev. H. W. Tate, 123 Lincoln Ave., Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes that for several years he has been troubled with a peculiar spasmodic affection of the throat, which interfered with his vocation as a preacher. He took Peru-na and his trouble disappeared.

The LAST VOYAGE of the DONNA ISABEL

"I sat down on the divan, watching Dade as he bustled about from the table to the pantry, over casting furtive glances toward the silent stateroom in which the dead man lay. Finally I got up, and, to Dade's horror, re-entered the mate's room, returning with the chart upon which our course had been picked up until noon of the previous day, and spread it out across my knees. I was still engaged in studying it when Lady Darlington, fully dressed, emerged from her cabin. She touched me before I was even aware of her presence."

"Is Mr. Tuttle still ill?" she questioned, anxiously, "and have you been on duty all night?"

"The first officer is dead," I answered, and made her sit down beside me. "I will tell you all the facts."

She listened attentively, her breath quickened from excitement, her face colorless. I dwelt upon the man's mental condition, his ghastly hallucinations, my discovery of him in the main cabin, and his final mad act of self-destruction. The very relation of this tragic story served to clear my own mind and strengthen my resolve.

"What—what will this mean to us?" she questioned, her lips trembling. "Will it release us from our bondage? Will it result in abandoning this crazy search after treasure?"

"Honestly I do not know, Lady Darlington," I acknowledged with reluctance. "The present attitude of the crew remains to be discovered. Practically we are as helpless as before. My one advantage lies in the fact that I am the only navigator on board. Yet they have power to compel me to do their will. I cannot battle against them alone."

"But you no longer believe in Tuttle's story?"

"I never have really believed it. But this is not a question of what I believe; it all hangs upon the faith of the men forward."

"But if they realize he was insane, surely they must also decide that his treasure ship was likewise a delusion."

I shook my head, gravely doubting her conclusion.

"I regret to say I possess no such expectation. The average sailor, Lady Darlington, is not given to reasoning; he is more a creature of impulse. I fear we are already too close to our goal to now be turned back by the mate's death. The men will insist on completing the voyage. I intend to have the entire crew piped aft after breakfast, and will talk to them. I wish you to go on deck with me at the time, and hear all that is said."

I paused, intently watching the expression of her face. "Whatever decision I may be driven to, I hope it will not forfeit me your respect."

"Oh, no."

"You will retain confidence in me, even if the bow of the Sea Queen continues to point seaward?"

She lifted her gray eyes to mine in unshadowed frankness.

"Whatever you think best, Mr. Stephens, I shall believe to be right," she responded, softly. "Will my trust help you?"

"It is the one thing needed. Thus armed I can fight it out."

The meal following was far from cheerful, although the bright sun streamed down through the deck transoms to fall in golden bars along the table, as our thoughts would constantly recur to that silent figure lying in the nearby bunk, while our conversation was largely about him, and the consequences of his death.

Finally, bidding both mistress and maid prepare themselves for an early call to the deck, I went forward to the bridge, relieving De Nova while he descended to the main cabin for his breakfast. The crew had already completed their meal and swarmed out of the forecastle, apparently aware that something was in the wind. I noticed big Bill Anderson circulating among the various groups, talking earnestly, and felt convinced the crew was endeavoring to settle upon some united course of action. Brutal and unlearned as he was, the boatswain was a thorough sea-lawyer, understanding well how to influence his mates, and with enough at stake in this game to render him desperate. The second mate joined me.

"Call all hands aft, Mr. De Nova," I said, after a glance into his face. "Every man Jack of them, except the two at the wheel. I will talk to them from the rail."

I took my position there, with Lady Darlington and Celeste close at hand, but somewhat sheltered under the lee of the longboat from the stinging wind. The herd came shuffling aft, and ranged themselves awkwardly enough on the open deck. De Nova cast his eyes over them, counting, then climbed the short ladder and joined me.

"All here, monsieur." Then lowered his voice. "Mapes was dead in 20 minutes."

"Mapes! Oh, he was the man who fell from the foreyard?"

"Ouf, an' it all makes ze crew feel scarce!"

I glanced at the group, and around at the stern vision of sea. Altogether it formed a dismal, disheartening picture—the men, bundled up in their heavy clothing, stamping their feet on the deck, their ragged beards poking out, their eyes gleaming beneath the brims of woolen caps drawn low, shuddering impatiently, and occasionally moving over to the rail to spit; the yacht, long battered by the sea, stripped of every unnecessary adornment, her hatches battened down, her funnel rusty, her sails close reefed, her forward deck a sheet of glistering ice, the sharp wind whistling through the frozen rigging as she staggered through a cold, gray, wintry sea, straining and groaning in every timber as the gleaming surges struck her quarter and the relentless wheel held her to the course. The whole view photographed itself indelibly upon my mind, and I clung to the rail, gazing about and down into those upturned faces below.

"Men," I said, finally, shadowing my lips with one hand to keep the words from being blown away. "I am no seer, and what I have to say will be short. No doubt you know pretty well already what has happened on board during the night. All I need say is, that Mr. Tuttle is dead; he went crazy and shot himself. Now, the reason I called you all is this. You are no regular article crew, on an ordinary voyage between ports. None of you have signed papers, and you have no lawful officers to take charge. It happens I'm the only navigator on board, and so I've called you all, after talking with Mr. De Nova about it, to get your ideas on what ought to be done. Some of you speak up until we can find out what your notions are."

No one among them made any response, the long row of eyes staring dully up at me, the foot shuffling in uneasiness.

"Come, Anderson, open up. You've been sounding the men for an hour past. What's your plan?"

The boatswain, thus directly singled out from the others, pushed his way to the front, glancing sideways into the faces of his mates.

"Well, we have talked about it a bit, Mr. Stephens, but I dunno as we've quite decided," his shrill voice burst to us on the wind. "Ilow far we are from the islands what Mr. Tuttle told about?"

"Nearly 200 miles to the northwest." The big sailor cast his eyes over the side at the sea view, slowly turning the gold in his cheek.

"An' the wind right. Tain't much of a run, sir, after what we've already had gettin' here. I reckon you could find that pint o' sea?"

"Yes," I acknowledged, almost reluctantly. "I can find it, unless the ice shuts us in first. But what's the use in taking such a chance, Anderson? Tuttle was probably just as crazy about that matter as he was over other things. To my mind he never saw any islands where he said he did. Government ships have surveyed all these waters again and again, and the charts show no land anywhere along that latitude. I'm for calling it a poor job, and turning back before we get nipped. Look where we are now; we haven't a mile of clear water either side of us, and a shift of wind will crush our sides like an eggshell."

The silent men stared gloomily out at that grim expanse of sea, ice and sky, but Anderson only scowled up into my face, slapping his mittened hands together.

"To hell wid that sort o' rot, Mr. Stephens," he broke forth, fiercely. "We're sailor-men, an' the most of us have seen ice before. This channel's wide enough for the hooker, an' what the devil do we want more? Maybe the old man was a bit nutty, but he knew how to sail these seas, an' he told a dam' straight yarn about that Spanish ship, just the same, an' I'm for findin' out whether or not it was a lie. Maybe there ain't no pease afloatin' for us out yonder, but, by God, sir, I want to know it for sure. An' so do my mates. Now, you say we're within 200 miles of Rudin' out the truth, an' I'm hanged if I'll consent to go back like a whipped cur without takin' even a squint along that latitude."

He stamped on the deck, glowering about him like a mad bull, evidently daring the others to contradict. I leaned farther out over the rail.

"Is that right, Jads? Has Anderson spoken your sentiments? Do you really mean to proceed in this crazy search in spite of all that ice out yonder?"

No voice responded, although I could hear the hoarse grumbling in their throats and see their heads shaking affirmatively. I turned toward the mate, who was standing just behind me.

"The men are all tongue-tied. How is it with you, Mr. De Nova? Are you for further couch, or a quick run home?"

I noticed him glance across toward Celeste, crouching beneath the shelter of the longboat, her face showing

ELECTRIC CAMERA FOR PHOTOGRAPHING UNDER THE SEA.

An invention which promises to be of unusual importance is one just patented by a Massachusetts man. It will enable scientists to study plant and animal life under the depth of the sea far more accurately than they have been able to do thus far. The upper section of the accompanying sketch shows a casing of steel and glass containing the electrodes of an arc lamp. The conductors which feed the arc lamp pass from the boat through two tubes, through which the air also passes into and out of the casing. The spherical end of the casing is constructed of glass and is braced against the hull of a ship or other submerged object as shown by the dotted lines of the illustration. Two lateral arms extend from the casing, which carry small water-tight camera cases, the exposure of the plates being made through glass lenses. A simple electric magnet device, controlled by wires from the ship, operates the shutter and plate magazine. Any powerful illuminant may be substituted for the arc lamp.

Electricity's Beginnings.

The term "electricity" was derived from the Greek word meaning amber. Electricity itself is earliest described by Theophrastus (321 B. C.) and Pliny (79 A. D.), who mention the power of amber to attract straw and dry leaves. Dr. Gilbert of Colchester, physician to Queen Elizabeth (1540-1603) may be considered the founder of the science, as he appears to have been the first philosopher who carefully repeated the observations of the ancients and applied to them the principles of philosophical investigation.
